Ignace is a reknown DJ in the French and German house music scenes, and a music showman with a genuine addiction: ignighting clubs!

From his debut at "Le Palace" club in Paris to the most private clubs in the world, this outstanding music expert has been playing alongside the greatest DJs: Eric Morillo, Carl Cox, Sven Väth, Bob Sinclar, to name a few.

His music is influenced by a wide array of sounds: disco, soul, pop, house, deep house and garage. He is known worldwide for his flawless technique and his use of multiple turntables (usually three to four), and electro drums.

Early Days

Ignace began his career at 17 in the mid 80s. He gradually gained ground as a must have DJ in the parisian clubbing floors, going from clubs to clubs before hosting a radio show on famous "Radio Nova", and introducing in France the very first sounds in Hip-Hop and R&B music. He also became a resident DJ at famous club «Le Palace ».

Germany's Deep House

From 1996 to 2001, excited about new acid house and techno sounds coming in Europe, he leaves Paris for Germany, where he hosts NoH and SoH parties at the Loft House in Frankfurt, or at Trip house alongside Sven Väth.

VIP in Paris

His music then takes a straight turn to house, deep house and garage sounds. Settling back in Paris in 2003, he acts at l'Enfer alongside Martin Solveig and Yass, at Cyril Peret parties "Don't Tell My Booker" and at Sylvie Chateigner parties "Thanks God i'am a VIP" alongside DJ Gregory, DJ Deep and Bob Sinclar, but also as resident DJ of Maison Blanche and other parisian clubs.

Today

Since 2013, Ignace has settled at Club Cabestan in Casablanca (Marocco), as Artistic Director, and has moved towards music production, with multiple tracks under way.
